GREENVILLE CHAMBER MEMBERS INVEST IN A PREMIER BUSINESS COMMUNITY

In mid-April, Greenville Chamber Board Chairman Sam Konduros, President/CEO Ben Haskew, and Presenting Sponsor The Spinx Company, kicked-off Operation FUEL, an effort aimed at developing new resources for the Chamber. Member volunteers contacted current and potential members with requests for expanded support, sponsorships, program scholarships, and new memberships with the goal of raising $100,000.

As Operation FUEL comes to a close, we are proud to announce that, thanks to the perseverance of dedicated volunteers and the investment of new and existing members, our goal was surpassed AND we have 125 new members investing in the Upstate business community! Jim Terry, past Chamber Chairman and now President of Hollingsworth Funds, led Operation FUEL with the message that, "For over a hundred years the Greenville Chamber has provided Upstate businesses with a place to convene, debate, and strategize on key critical issues facing our community. There is no stronger advocate for businesses than the Greenville Chamber. It's not about our individual needs, but about resourcing an institution that works daily to build the viable, pro-business community we have today."

Participating Operation FUEL teams will gather on July 12th for a victory celebration at the Chamber. Producing teams and their team captains were:

- Greenville Chamber Board - Luanne Runge, Gallivan, White & Boyd
- South Carolina Bank & Trust - Ed Stein
- Public Policy - Jim Evers, AT&T
- Greenville Chamber Staff - Ben Haskew
- TD Bank - David Lominack
- The Spinx Company - Dave DeSerio
- Greenville Hospital System - Robyn Zimmerman
- Jim Terry
- Wachovia - Brian Rogers
- BB&T - Scott Taylor
- Regions Bank - Lindsey Leonard
- Greenville Drivers - Tim Justice, Rescom Construction
- Professionals - Chris Gantt-Sorenson, Haynsworth Sinkler Boyd
- PULSE - Sean Muserallo, WYFF 4

Members' 97% tax-deductible dues are critical to supporting the Chamber's efforts to improve the local business environment. Chamber groups and business events focus on providing networking and relevant learning experiences, leadership and education outreach programs help develop and prepare our talent pool, public policy efforts lobby for Upstate businesses in Columbia and Washington, and economic development initiatives keep a close watch on where we are, where we need to be, and how to get there in order to be competitive in the evolving global marketplace.

New member Megan Finnern with Phoneworx has already found value in the Chamber, "Growing a business phone system company can be a challenge in today's market, but the Chamber has been a terrific resource for community involvement, business support and building relationships. We've attended the Before Hours, After Hours, Sales Roundtables, and the Grow Expo, and we appreciate how each event includes a structured networking opportunity. We've made some terrific connections with other area businesses and look forward to many more!"
